WASHINGTON: SATURDAY, JUNE 24, 1820.

Vol. XXI.

WASHINGTON.

Friday, June 23.

A Peace Conference was given in Philadelphia on Wednesday, by the State and General Government of the United States, for the purpose of arranging the terms of peace with the Indian tribes of the Northwest Territory, and of establishing friendly relations between the United States and the said tribes.

The conference was opened by the State and General Government of the United States, who, after some preliminaries, stated the object of the conference, which was to discuss the terms of peace with the Indian tribes of the Northwest Territory, and to establish friendly relations between the United States and the said tribes.

The conference was then adjourned to the 24th instant, when the peace conference will be resumed.

DEBATE ON THE MISSOURI BILL.

In the House of Representatives, the following bill was reported:

(Continued.)

LETTER FROM SPAIN.

May 27th, 1820.

To the Right Honorable the President of the United States.

Mr. President—Your Excellency's letter of the 25th instant, was received with great pleasure. Your Excellency's letter was accompanied with a copy of the proceedings of the Spanish Congress, relative to the admission of the United States into the Union of the Spanish West Indies.

I have the honor to inform your Excellency that the proceedings of the Spanish Congress, relative to the admission of the United States into the Union of the Spanish West Indies, were read in the House of Representatives of the United States, on the 23rd instant, and were received with great satisfaction.

I have the honor to be, &c.

J. Madison.

The King has issued the following proclamation.

The King has issued the following proclamation.

May 27th, 1820.

To the Right Honorable the President of the United States.

Mr. President—Your Excellency's letter of the 25th instant, was received with great pleasure. Your Excellency's letter was accompanied with a copy of the proceedings of the Spanish Congress, relative to the admission of the United States into the Union of the Spanish West Indies.

I have the honor to inform your Excellency that the proceedings of the Spanish Congress, relative to the admission of the United States into the Union of the Spanish West Indies, were read in the House of Representatives of the United States, on the 23rd instant, and were received with great satisfaction.

I have the honor to be, &c.

J. Madison.

The King has issued the following proclamation.

May 27th, 1820.

To the Right Honorable the President of the United States.

Mr. President—Your Excellency's letter of the 25th instant, was received with great pleasure. Your Excellency's letter was accompanied with a copy of the proceedings of the Spanish Congress, relative to the admission of the United States into the Union of the Spanish West Indies.

I have the honor to inform your Excellency that the proceedings of the Spanish Congress, relative to the admission of the United States into the Union of the Spanish West Indies, were read in the House of Representatives of the United States, on the 23rd instant, and were received with great satisfaction.

I have the honor to be, &c.

J. Madison.
WASHINGTON, Saturday, June 24.

An account of the murder of Mr. Maunder, held at Shrewsbury, Mass., on Thursday last, is now before the grand jury, and will be inquired into. Mr. Maunder is said to have been killed by a shot fired by a man who had been disarmed and had been confined in the state penitentiary.

J. J. H. W., of Indiana, to be recovered from the effects of the cholera.

N. J. H., of Indiana, is recovering from the effects of the cholera.

J. J. H., of Maryland, makes the following statement: He states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.

J. J. H., of Ohio, states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.

J. J. H., of Pennsylvania, states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.

J. J. H., of Virginia, states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.

J. J. H., of Wisconsin, states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.

J. J. H., of New York, states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.

J. J. H., of Pennsylvania, states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.

J. J. H., of New York, states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.

J. J. H., of Pennsylvania, states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.

J. J. H., of New York, states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.

J. J. H., of Pennsylvania, states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.

J. J. H., of New York, states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.

J. J. H., of Pennsylvania, states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.

J. J. H., of New York, states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.

J. J. H., of Pennsylvania, states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.

J. J. H., of New York, states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.

J. J. H., of Pennsylvania, states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.

J. J. H., of New York, states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.

J. J. H., of Pennsylvania, states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.

J. J. H., of New York, states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.

J. J. H., of Pennsylvania, states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.

J. J. H., of New York, states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.

J. J. H., of Pennsylvania, states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.

J. J. H., of New York, states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.

J. J. H., of Pennsylvania, states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.

J. J. H., of New York, states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.

J. J. H., of Pennsylvania, states that he has been in the habit of using the patent medicine for the cure of dysentery, and that he has been cured of the disease by its use.