W. F. White, Gen'l Passenger and Ticket Agent.
"For the business man who is in a hurry, the invalid who is in search of health, or the tourist who travels for pleasure, the GREAT MIDDLE RANS to the Pacific Coast has no equal in smoothness of track, elegance of equipment, diversity of scenery and interest, regularity of time, and certainty of connections!"

DIARY.—Continued.

spending sections in another, and the passenger makes the only change required of him: without trouble, and often without knowing it; train from here to Las Vegas has been described as a pleasure, a pleasure; and all on the Southern Pacific from Las Vegas to El Paso through the mountains, as a delight. The scenery is wonderful throughout, but the most interesting part is the descent from the mountains down to the Pacific Ocean, where the traveler arrives at a most delightful and healthful climate."
